Executive Summary

Spring 2018

Introduction

Annually University Career Services (UCS) surveys May graduates receiving their bachelor's degrees from UNC-Chapel Hill regarding their career fields, graduate/professional schools, employers, geographic locations, salaries, and other data. A total of 3,755 undergraduates earned a bachelor's degree in May 2017. Out of this number of graduates, a total of 2351 outcomes were known (62.6%).

Methodology

The First Destination Survey data includes students who completed a bachelor's degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in May 2017. The data collection began in March 2017 and concluded in December 2017. For students who indicated they were "still seeking" or "not seeking" employment as well as students who did not respond in the initial survey, several follow-up contacts were attempted throughout the remainder of 2017 to update the employment status to get a more complete summary of first destination outcomes. This timeframe also reflects the standard benchmark for national data collected by NACE.

Outcome information was collected via the following methods.

- Student surveys (hardcopy and electronic)
- Social media research (Live Alumni, LinkedIn)
- Employer feedback and surveys
- Departmental surveys
- Emails to graduates

Metrics

There are a number of standard metrics established by NACE to help evaluate the data collected in the First Destination Survey. These metrics include the total success rate, standard employment, continuing education, without an outcome, and mean starting salary. Each of these metrics are defined and evaluated below according to five year trends for UCS.

Summary

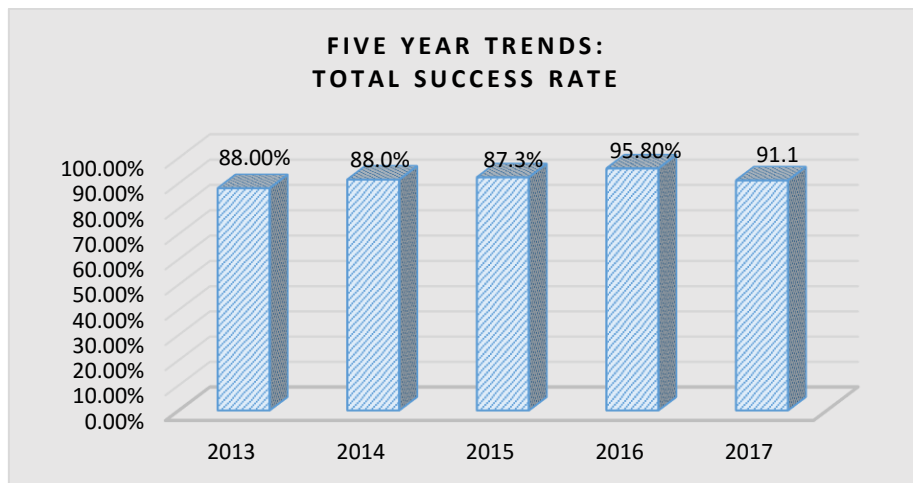

In January 2014 the National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE) established standards for collecting and reporting first destination outcomes. University Career Services at UNC Chapel Hill utilized these standards when compiling data for the First Destination Survey for the graduating class of 2017. Data for this graduating class was compiled for all graduates over a period of six months after graduation which is the same benchmark for data collection by NACE.

It is important to note that some of the outcomes reported in this document are based on self-report data. The data reflect outcomes within six months of graduation for students graduating with a bachelor's degree; therefore, the outcomes do not project the long-term career prospects of these graduates.

Total Success Rate

The total success rate is the percentage of bachelor's degree graduates who achieved a positive outcome (employment, self-employment, service/military, or continuing education) within six-month's after graduation. The total success rate for UNC Chapel Hill for the class of May 2017 was 91.1%.

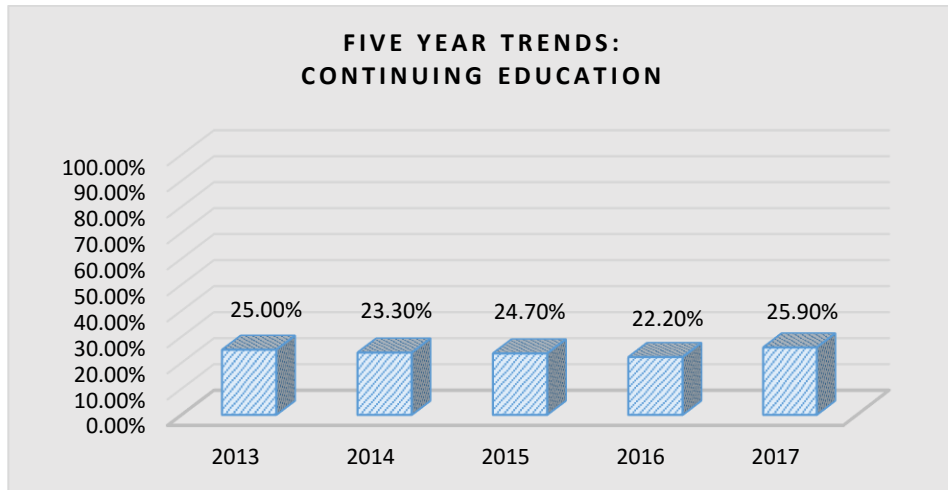

Standard Employment Rate

Based on the NACE standard, the standard employment rate includes full-time defined as being employed for 30 hours per week or more on a regular basis. The standard employment rate for UNC Chapel Hill for the class of May 2017 was 60.30%.

Continuing Education Rate

Based on the NACE standard, continuing education refers to students who are actively engaged in pursuing another degree completion or certificate that may be required for their profession, e.g., certified public accountant (CPA). The continuing education rate for UNC Chapel Hill for the class of May 2017 was 25.90%.

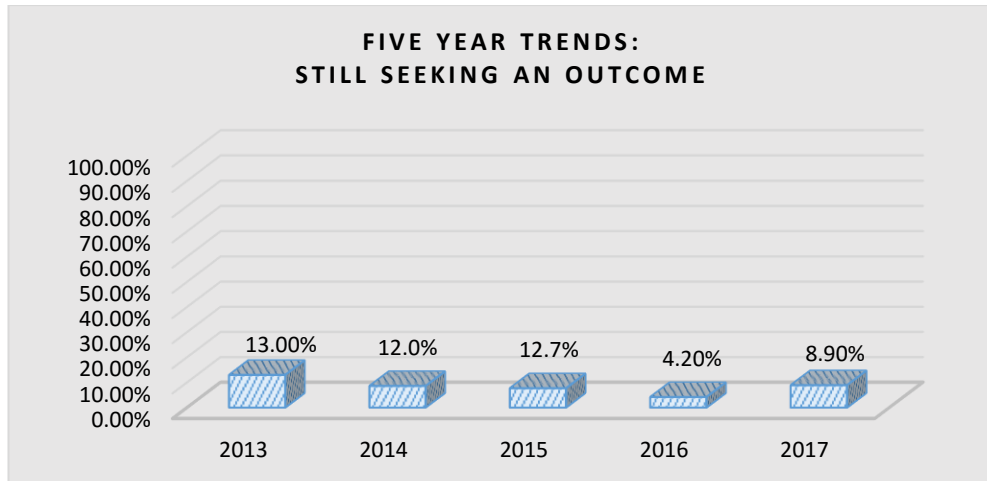

Not Seeking/Taking Time Off/Other Outcomes

As defined by NACE, graduates who the institution knows have decided not to pursue any landing (employment, service, the military, or continuing education) in this period after graduation are to be designated as “not seeking.” The “not seeking” rate for UNC Chapel Hill for the class of May 2017 was 4.9%.

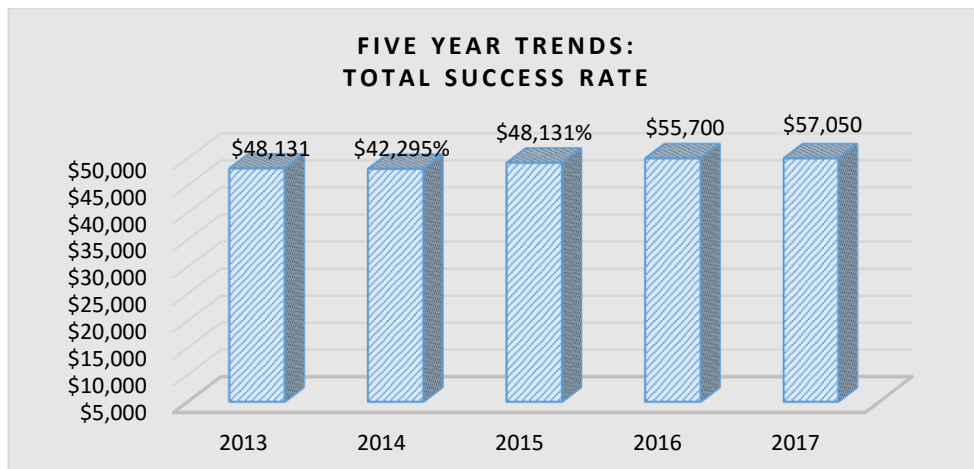

Still Seeking an Outcome

As defined by NACE, graduates who have not landed in any of the preceding categories and are known by the institution to be still pursuing a landing are identified as “still seeking an outcome”. They may be principally interested in obtaining employment (still seeking employment) or the primary goal may be to be admitted to a graduate or professional program (still seeking continuing education). The Still Seeking an Outcome rate for UNC-CH for the May 2017 class was 8.9%.

Average Starting Salary

NACE standards call for collecting starting salary for graduates who are employed on a full-time basis. For the national averages, NACE calculated overall salary by weighting the individual institutional averages and medians by the number of salaries or bonuses represented by an individual institution’s data. The average starting salary for UNC Chapel Hill for the class of May 2017 was $57,050
