Example:

Hi, my name is James Lujan, and I am a junior Computer Science major. I've been developing my skills around iOS development and particularly enjoy working with a team to see a project to completion. My team and I recently won first place at HackNC. In the future, I'd love to be part of a company that combines teamwork and collaboration with stellar developer skills. Can you tell me how someone with my experience and interest might fit into your organization?
